Transportation Funding Deal Explained

After years of advocating for new transportation revenues, counties finally saw the Legislature pass a deal this month. Over the next few years, as the revenues begin to phase in, counties, cities, and the state will all be able to dedicate more funding to fix roads and expand alternative transportation options.

With the new funds come questions:

- What taxes were part of the final plan?
- When will the revenue start flowing?
- What kinds of projects can the new revenue be used for?
- Is there a deadline for using the funding?
- How are counties required to report their plans and spending?

Register for CSAC's next webinar to learn the answers these questions and more:
